Chips

Once upon a time, little boys and little girls, there was a college student named Dick Rollo, who for the space of one whole year wrote a column of would-be witticisms every week for a noble sheet called The University Hatchet. And after he had voiced his opinion on student activities and some others, for that period, he took a vacation from which he is now returning, having avoided traffic cops, racketeers, rate editors, and profs, and now asks that you bear with him for another year.

Something ought to be done about advertisers who profess to know college people. Witness the ad which appeared in a local paper last week: "Wanted men and college students to sell Blah Products." That's what women with short hair and men with long hair have done for us.

But at any rate, freshmen coming to George Washington have ample time and opportunity to show their ability during the coming year. The "Iron Men" of yester-year, who lost two games only last year, and substituted six times during the season, are shattered, so we hear, and only a large squad of freshmen this year will prevent a similar fate next year.

The "Iron Men" suffered from too much faculty, we understand. It seems when the profs placed some of last year's regulars and freshmen under their microscopes, they found the grid stars to be merely cast-iron.

But so long as football players believe that football is sufficient to secure them excellent grades and a good living, and so long as George Washington refuses to commercialize the sport, the Buff and Blue will be represented by student-football players, forming occasionally a brilliant team as in 1927, but more often, a team of but ordinary ability.

The question seems to be—Student-Grid stars versus Grid-Star-Students. And as better men than we have said, "You pay your money, and you take your choice."

Nor is the football team the only one shattered. The men's life team, who have been champions so long that their first championship cup is lost in the dust of ages, is left with one varsity man, the others having graduated. Freshmen of last year are called upon to fill the gaps. And freshmen of this year must stand by for next year.

Pre-registration strollers about the campus were astounded to see the numerous changes, including new coats of paint on most of the classrooms, most of the girls about the campus, and on Frank Kreglow's flivver. But the lemon-cokes at Quigley's are still the same.

Fraternities decide to reform their rushing practices, limiting the "open season" for freshmen, by abstaining from rushing the innocents for three days before opening day, and seven days afterwards. That ought to give the members time to clean up the houses after summer parties, and should be a good thing for all concerned.

Furthermore, it cuts the rushing season ten days short, and for that reason is more beneficial to the brethren's pocketbooks. They shouldn't be called Greeks—we suggest that they be now called Scotchmen.

Prexy, at the outset of his second year at the University, says rooms are needed in examination rooms to answer the questions of the students. Our recollection is that profs begin their remarks at exam time with these words: "Follow the mimeographed directions; no questions will be answered."

And a solution to the whole affair would be the abolition of exams. And we believe—we'll save that discourse for a time nearer exams.

Politics seem to influence the President's speech. He "points with pride," and rightly so, to the fact that George Washington's Medical School is ranked above Johns Hopkins, and second to Harvard by the American Medical Association, insofar as the average percentage of failures of graduates before state boards is concerned.

Prof. Moss begins a series of tests to discover just what nation and what continent has the corner on intelligence, by examining students between the ages of 10 and 16 in their native haunts. Our advice to him is that he keep the results secret, or he'll start another world war. They used to fight over who had the largest army; now it's to decide who has the most brains.

Of course, we know already what nation has the most brains, but then, all peoples are not so wise as DICK ROLLO.

REGISTRATION IN GYMNASIUM NOW BEING CONDUCTED

Late Registration Fee of $5.00 To Be Charged After September 18

DEANS AND ADVISERS MUST BE CONSULTED

University Fee, One Month's Tuition, Laboratory Fee and Deposit, Due in Advance

Registration for the academic year 1928-1929 is taking place in the University Gymnasium from Saturday to Tuesday, September 15 to 18, inclusive. No student who has not previously registered will be admitted to classes.

Every student is required to consult the Dean of his School or College and the adviser for his department or major subject, before filling out the registration forms, in order that no misunderstandings may arise later in the course. Entering freshmen must also consult the Dean of Women or the Dean of Men. After the necessary consultation have been completed and the course of study for the coming year decided upon, the student fills out the registration forms, according to the instructions which are furnished to him.

At the time of registration, students pay the University Fee, tuition and laboratory fees for October, and laboratory deposits. Certificates for admission to classes are then given.

Law School and Medical School students will register in Stockton Hall and the Medical School Building, respectively, according to the announcements of those departments.

For enrolling in the University after the designated period, a late registration fee of $5.00 is charged. For changes made after registration is completed, there is a charge of $2.00. Registration is for the year unless otherwise indicated, and must be for at least one semester.

Y. W. WELCOMES FRESHMEN CO-EDS

Little Sister Movement Will Last From September 19 to October 6

ENDS WITH CARD PARTY

Membership Drive For Y. W. C. A. To Be Conducted At Same Time; Candle Light Service Oct. 6

The annual Y. W. C. A. little sister movement and membership campaign which will walk hand in hand on the campus this year from September 19 to October 6 inclusive, will end with two social events of major importance.

The first is the big and little sister card party which is to be given Wednesday night, October 3, in Corcoran Hall 1. The committee in charge of the function is made up of Caroline Hobbs, chairman; Dorothy Albert, vice chairman; Ruth Griggs, Mary Lewis Beard, Elizabeth Miles, and Elizabeth Buntin.

Although plans have not been published as yet, it should turn out to be one of the highlights of the social season at the University, according to those who have inside information.

As usual, each Freshman girl has been given an upper classman as a "big sister" to show her the "ins" and "outs" of college life; and see that she becomes acquainted with the other students. The big sisters are urged to bring the new students to the card party to meet the other University girls.

Anyone without either a big or little sister, and desiring one, should communicate with Caroline Hobbs, in Dean Rose's office.

The second big event will be the candle light service on Saturday night in the Woman's Building. This service is the beautiful and impressive ceremony used by the Student "Y" all over the country, symbolizing its more serious side.

The "Y" hopes to have a large attendance Saturday night as Winnie Beall, membership chairman, aims to make every University girl a "Y. W." member. With this as a start the Y. W. C. A. expects to do big things this year.

FRESHMAN TEA

All freshmen are invited to attend the Matriculation Tea, Wednesday, September 19th, from 4 to 6 in the Women's Building.

PRESIDENT CLOYD HECK MARVIN

MARVIN'S ADMINISTRATION ENTERS ON SECOND YEAR

President Discusses Higher Education in General, Student Government, The Honor System, and Athletics at Faculty Meeting—New Appointments Listed.

Problems of higher education in general, and their particular application to the future development of The George Washington University were discussed by President Cloyd Heck Marvin at the first meeting of the year of the George Washington faculties, held Wednesday night in Corcoran Hall. The meeting, which was followed by an informal reception, marked the opening of the second year of President Marvin's administration.

Concerning student problems,

President Marvin stated that the University does not look forward to the institution of student government as such, but rather to a true relationship between the students and members of the Faculties out of which, he says, will grow a "cooperative government for the University."

Honor System Changes

In discussing the honor system in universities and colleges Dr. Marvin stated that the idea is at the present time in a state of flux, having been tried and found wanting in a number of institutions. "My own belief," he said, "is that a student has a right to expect the professor to be present during examinations. If examinations are a part of the educational scheme, they must be a definite part of the scheme of instruction. The student may want to raise a legitimate question or may want the counsel of the professor. Here again I feel that it is best to work out a scheme that is based upon true cooperation between the instructor and those instructed. It seems to me that if a class has been given the right type of instruction and has been carefully checked throughout its progress to a given goal, there will be very little need to worry about dishonorable acts."

In regard to athletics, President Marvin emphasized that all University teams must be composed of students whose scholarship is unquestioned and who have had at least one year of residence in the University. "It is better to play lesser teams upon this basis than more outstanding teams on any other," he said.

Aptitude Tests Possible

The substitution of aptitude tests and measurements for the older practice of requiring four years' high school and the recommendation of the principal as a basis for selecting students for entrance is a question for serious consideration, according to Dr. Marvin.

President Marvin expressed satisfaction in the work being done by the professional schools of the University, mentioning particularly the fact that the American Medical Association in rating medical schools for the past ten years on the basis of the average percentage of failures of graduates before the state boards, places Harvard first at 1.2 per cent, The George Washington University second, with 1.6 per cent, and Johns Hopkins third, with 2.6 per cent.

The following Faculty appointments were announced at the meeting:

Head Coach "Maud" Crum's tone was very pessimistic last night when he discussed the gridiron prospects for the present season.

Only a few men turned out for the initial practice when the first call for candidates was made two weeks ago, and to date only eighteen men have reported. Among those working out now are only four regulars from last year's varsity: Allshouse, Carey, Clapper and Lopeman. It is hoped, however, that the opening of the regular session of school will bring out more material.

FRATS ANNOUNCE 1928 RUSH RULES

New Regulations To Be Enforced Among Members of Inter-Fraternity Council

Organized Rushing Will Be Prohibited From September 15 to September 25

George von Dachenhausen, Phi Sigma Kappa delegate and president of the inter-fraternity council, made it known today that the representatives of the eleven social fraternities who are part of the council will rigidly hold to the enforcement of the new rushing rules which were passed with the full support of all the social groups; through their delegates in meeting of the inter-fraternity council last year.

In substance the new rules forbid any form of organized rushing of non-fraternity men for a period of three days before the opening of school and seven days after the opening of the regular session. This rule is interpreted by the council as meaning group or individual rushing on or off campus.

The president of the council explained that these rules were thought advisable in as much as the freshman entering the University in former years were given little or no time to become acquainted with his new surroundings and the traditions of the school before entering upon the social activities which are usually planned by the respective social fraternities.

In view of the fact that the new rule will go into effect at midnight, Sunday, September 15, the several fraternities who have plans made for social events to which, per chance, freshmen might be invited, have agreed to terminate the occasion before midnight in order that no violation of the agreement will be made.

There shall be no rushing or pledging three days prior to the opening of the University and seven days thereafter.

Rushing is interpreted as the entraining of non-fraternity men by fraternity men off of the campus.

No man whose pledge has been broken by one fraternity, or who has broken his pledge may be pledged to another fraternity until after six months have elapsed.

FROSH MIXER

A general get-together meeting of all men in the University will be held in the Gymnasium, 2010 H Street, on Friday evening, September 21, at eight o'clock. The mixer is to take the form of a pep meeting for the coming football season, and a general welcome affair for incoming freshmen by the upperclassmen. It is understood that the President of the University, Coach H. W. Crum, and prominent students will be numbered among the speakers.

FRESHMEN of the Class of 1932 George Washington Welcomes You!

Crum has not been idle with the few men now at hand. Ever since September 4, the small squad has been running through two workouts daily at the Georgetown Freshmen field. The first several days were devoted to light limbering up exercises which soon showed who had been idle during the summer vacation. After the first few days harder work was indulged in with additional track work to those who were over weight and soft. From the beginning the coaching staff has been paying particular attention to the play and tactics to be employed by each man in his respective position. From light work the schedule soon called for heavier practices so that now the scrimmage test will soon show how seasoned players are shaping up and what new men will be found in the vacant positions when the season opens.

Nat Weinstock, former Western Maryland star, has been added to the coaching staff as line coach. With a capable line coach like Weinstock on the scene, Crum has been able to devote his full time to the backfield candidates who are learning the Colonials' formations and plays from him.

Of the eighteen men present, six are backfield aspirants. Of the six only Clapper and Lopeman of last year's team have reported. Among the newcomers, Coombs, of the last year's undefeated Freshmen team, looks good.

With the backs in the hands of Coach Crum, Weinstock has taken full charge of the line candidates. For the past three or four days he has been running his charges through scrimmage which was preceded by daily dummy scrimmage.

Although Carey and Allshouse, ends, are the only line regulars who have reported to date, several promising men have already been uncovered in the pre-season work.

Dick Rollins, formerly of George Mason High School, looks particularly good and at present seems almost certain of a varsity berth. Dan Eberly, also a newcomer, standing about six feet two inches, has been showing flashes of promise and is being counted upon to help in many games.

As a result of the magnificent record made last year by the Colonials, an attractive schedule has been arranged for the 1928 Bluff and Blue Season. Keeping Fordham, Penn State and Catholic University as three of their opponents, the powerful Lafayette team, will be met at Easton, Pennsylvania, on October 13; William and Mary College is to be played three weeks later at the Central Stadium. These additions help to make up the heaviest schedule ever attempted by a Colonial eleven.

Coach Crum pointed out last night that it will be almost impossible to meet Fordham and Lafayette in successive games with only five or six substitutes on the bench. Looking forward to a small squad which will, according to present indications, be as small in number as the famous "Iron-men" of last year, the coaching staff is attempting to round the squad into perfect physical condition which, according to the team's trainer, is the only way success can be hoped for.

Despite the fact that several more veterans including Van Meter and others, are expected to return at the opening of school, the coaches are sending out an urgent call for more material and it is hoped that everyone who is at all able to do so will respond to the call.

Equipment will be furnished upon application at the University gymnasium.

HATCHET MEETS

All students, either part-time or full-time, who are interested in working on the staff of The University Hatchet are asked to be present at the first meeting of the year, Thursday night, September 20, at 7:30 p. m. in C. H. 29.

WASHINGTON, D. C., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1928

TO THE FRESHMEN

A student, entering any institution of learning for the first time, finds himself literally swamped in work, social activities, and traditions. To the incoming freshmen, the Class of 1932, George Washington will offer all three.

Extensive reorganization has marked the past summer so far as the University is concerned, and a host of new instructors have appeared to install new courses and assist in teaching regular courses of former years in a manner that will be better than ever before. New schools, new departments, new subjects, new degrees—all appear this year for the first time in George Washington's most pretentious catalogue.

For social activities, George Washington is unexcelled. The Y. W. C. A., with its "Little Sister" movement, the "Mixers" given for men in all departments of the University, the gaiety and comradeship of fraternity and sorority life, the bustle and stir of teams, publications, societies, all play an important part in campus life.

And as for tradition, here again George Washington is rich. Not in the traditions that require freshmen to wear mirth-provoking caps and perform ludicrous acts; not in the traditions that hold freshmen as unworthy beings until a year's apprenticeship has been served; but in traditions with real meaning—traditions that are never printed, but always observed.

To this University, with its work, its play, and its customs, The Hatchet welcomes the Freshman Class.

"LITTLE SISTERS"

The "Little Sister" Movement sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. should receive the cooperation of every girl in George Washington University, not only the full-time but the part-time student as well. This movement, which is becoming an annual event, is intended to help the freshmen adjust themselves to their new environment and assist them in the solving of problems that may arise as they enter upon their college career. To accomplish this, upper classmen are selected to act as "Big Sisters" to the incoming freshmen. The good of this movement will depend on the big sisters, however, and the extent to which they carry out the intentions of the Y. W.

Each girl matriculating at George Washington is entitled to an equal amount of attention. Just because our little sister isn't as handsome as our sorority sister's doesn't lessen our responsibility. A girl entering our University is thrown among a group of perhaps a thousand other girls; that she will have problems is to be expected. We big sisters had these same problems when we first launched out on our college career and we should lend a sympathetic ear to those who are assigned as our little sisters.

Oftentimes in the past the part-time student entering the University has not been given the attention that has been bestowed on the day student. These girls form an important part of our student body and should be given the same consideration and aid that is offered the full-time student, and in many cases the need is greater. There are many girls in the evening school who could act as "Big Sisters" to these freshmen and it is hoped the Y will take care of this part of the assignments.

With the "big" and "little" sisters working together we should make this a big year for G. W. by instilling into our new group a sense of loyalty and devotion to their Alma Mater—then our gym will be crowded for any game and we will have enough supporters on hand to make a big noise for our football team at home or abroad.

The George Washington University Colonials are about to tackle the hardest schedule in its history with only a hand full of players available for service. Among those who have reported for practice are only four regulars from last year's team.

Coach Harry Watson Crum is pessimistic.

Crum's pessimism is well founded, for he had planned upon having at least eight men from last year's remarkable varsity and all members of his undefeated freshmen team with which to build a winning team. All bright visions, however, have been wiped out by the pre-season training period.

There are two types of men in the University; of those who have the physical proportions and can play football just a few reports for practice and a greater number do not report. Of the few who play football, the greater number, last year's varsity and freshman team being a good case in point, become ineligible for further activity after their first year.

Now, the solution is more simple than it would seem at first glance: In the first place, more men now in the University who can play football should allow the spirit of the game to move them into lending their power; the second point calls for a greater scholastic activity on the part of the football men who do report so as to enable them to maintain a sufficiently clean record in scholarship to allow their continued participation in the sport. Sounds simple, doesn't it?

As a matter of fact it isn't as simple as it sounds. It is difficult to gain the cooperation of a student who has no spirit, and that is what the majority of the big men in the University lack. It is just as difficult to make the regular athlete study when his interest lies only in football with no thought to the required standard necessary to make him eligible.

Inasmuch as it is purely a matter which is individual and requires the attention of the individual in whom the fault lies, it is only in our power to extend a plea to all to whom it applies; a plea to the spiritless student who can play football but instead of doing his bit towards athletic success by turning out for the team prefers to show off his coon skin coat on the sidelines while a few of his lighter fellows attempt to uphold the tradition of the school; a plea to the athlete to indulge his studies just a bit more so that at the beginning of the school year he may turn his full attention to conditioning and learning the game instead of spending his time, without success, to gain eligibility.

THE same familiar groups gathered on the campus retelling a whole summer's collection of dirt—the long line of tardily registering students waiting before the Registrar's Office (known to the uninitiated as Corcoran Hall 1)—frenzied arguments with the office force, singly and en masse, about that work for which the University couldn't possibly consider giving you credit—the careful survey of all new students for "good material"—the attempts of little and big sisters to become united adding to the general confusion—bells ringing for classes quietly ignored because "he won't call the roll the first day, and anyway I can tell him I hadn't gotten my registration straightened out"—frantic efforts to get service in Quigley's ("Hey Roy, where's that 'coke' I ordered?")—In short, just the usual first day of school.

In spite of the fact that the end of vacation always brings regret, there is also a feeling that it will be good to get back and see everybody and find out what's been going on during the summer. Judging by some of the conversations we have overheard—accidentally, of course—Washington must have been a very deserted place during the summer.

Hazel Arrington spent a part of her summer on a trip abroad.

Chi Omega gave a bridge party for members and their guests every other week throughout the summer.

Ruth Newburn is back at George Washington after having studied for a year at the Sorbonne in Paris.

The engagement of Helen Perriam, Chi Omega, to Harry Halle of Springfield, Mass., has been announced, the wedding to take place shortly before Christmas.

This summer has taken a toll of brides. Among them are: Alice Ranck, Katherine Chamberlain, Katherine Scheinder, and Dorothy Colburn.

Annabelle Lloyd, a member of Pi Beta Phi was married to Harcourt Sonntag, a Phi Sig, last June.

L. James Falck was married to Miss Florence Keneipp on September 8th.

Kappa Beta Pi legal sorority was entertained by Mrs. Anne Musgrave at a garden party held at her home in Laurel, Maryland, shortly after the close of the school year.

Woodrow Wilson Senate of the Delta Theta Phi legal sorority fraternity held a house party the week-end of August 4; at Bay Ridge, Maryland. Swimming and boating were the order of the day. Sunday morning a large number of Delta Thets motored down from the city to join in the merry making.

Professor Gropp's mother visited him this summer from Switzerland.

Professor Sehr is on leave of absence from the University for one year. The death last July of his little daughter came as a severe blow to all, and Professor and Mrs. Sehr have the deep sympathy of the University in their bereavement.

Professor Kayser underwent a tonsil operation last month but by now is completely recovered.

Dean Doyle spent a vacation at his home in Boston.

Dean Rose and Miss Kincannon had an enjoyable trip up North; and later visited in Mississippi, at Miss Kincannon's home.

The Alpha Delta Pi's were entertained at a very enjoyable picnic as guests of Col. and Mrs. P. A. Anderson at their summer home at Bayridge.

Martha Steele, Delta Little, Margaret and Elizabeth Rees went up to West Point for camp elimination.

Barbara Miller and Helen Kerr included in their summer wanderings a month in Vermont on Lake Champlain and visits to Montreal, New York City, and Atlantic City. Eugenie Le Merle was with them in Vermont.

Helen Mitchell, Pi Beta Phi, was married to Sterling Huntington Clarke, a member of Beta Theta Pi, on August 29th, in Chicago. They will make their home in South Dakota.

Estelle Smith went to Europe this summer.

Eleanor Hall made her debut in Newport, Rhode Island.

The marriage of Martha McGee to Jimmy Lemon took place in Washington on September 13th. Mr. Lemon, a Princeton man is a former athletic coach at G. W. U. and Miss McGee is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

Several Sigma Kappas motored up to Cape Cod where they took a cottage for the summer. Agnes Goodlowe, Eleanor McAuliffe and Catherine Scrivener were in the party.

Margaret Beasley, a member of Pi Beta Phi, was married to Reginald Pledger, a Theta Delta Chi, on July 21st, in Washington.

"Five pounds" was presented to Kappa Delta in June, when Col. and Mrs. Edwin Bell announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth to Mr. Charles Neil, son of Dr. and Mrs. Neil, also of this city.

THE CAMPUS SAGE

The Freshman studies the catalogue and finds himself all in a fog, because the studies he should take won't give him even a minute's break to do his campus work up right or give him chance to play at night. This English course is such a bore, and English he always did abhor; but yet it says for this degree this course he must pass with a "C." The courses picked, he must decide what proof, he wants to be his guide throughout the year in every course, and that's where he is at a loss. A friend of his the year before had taken math with a professor who he said wasn't worth a hang cause all he did was go bing-bang right through the book; and, Gee! the homework for each night was enough to give Isaac Newton a fright. The other subjects are just the same—it seems to him that it's a shame to have to take such awful stuff and make his tried life twice as rough. So it matters not how he may try, those requisites he can't get by. And he closes up the yellow book, concluding that college is all a hook.

Another five pounds came when Margaret Mann announced her engagement.

Helen Furer and Betty Joyce Graham took student tours through Europe this summer.

Carol Fraser and Helen Furer were hostesses at New York and Bridgeport respectively when they entertained at a house party in August. Their guests were: Margaret Harriman, Walter Lee, Clifton Toal, and Edmund Brower.

Melanie Uhlig and Mary Crowley attended summer school at the University of Wisconsin, while Gene Cuvillier, Estelle and Helen Humphrey, and Roberta January were at the Marine Biological Laboratory. Carol Fraser attended Columbia University in New York City.

There was a slumber party at the Kappa Delta house in August, when many of the Kappa Deltas living in town were guests of the house girls. Refreshments were served at twelve and three.

NEW MEN'S RIFLE TEAM MUST FILL MANY VACANCIES

Both Challenge and National Championship Matches To Be Scheduled

LANE AND PARSONS TO FORM TEAM'S NUCLEUS

Coaches Hold Hopes of Equaling Brilliant Record Set By Team of Last Year

When Coach Frank Parsons of the George Washington University Rifle team begins to build a winning combination of marksmen within the next few weeks he will find but one man of last year's championship team available for duty. Captain Bill Lane is the only man who was not eliminated through graduation.

Frank Parsons, last year's captain and successor to Walter Stokes, former coach, who is now an intern at Walter Reed Hospital of this City, feels confident, however, that the Colonials will again have a team fully as good as those in the past. In a statement made today, Parsons, stated that H. Parsons—no relation to the coach—manager of last year's successful team, showed marks of skill which promised to make a star rifleman out of him.

With only two positions on the varsity team filled it is hoped that a large number of men will turn out when regular practice starts within a week or two. Definite notice will appear when the official call for candidates is made.

While no plans have yet taken form it is understood that after a period of practice on the range, challenge matches will be engaged in until the first of January. From the first of the year until sometime in March will be taken up by the National Telegraphic Championship matches. From March until the close of school the national shoulder to shoulder engagements will take place to determine the championship in that rather specialized line of sharpshooting. It is understood that both indoor and outdoor shoulder to shoulder matches will be on the George Washington schedule.

Last year's remarkable team won very rifle championship of importance which was open to college teams, including the National Indoor Championship and the National Service Rifle Championship.

COLONIALS HAVE STRONGEST CARD IN GRID HISTORY

Season Opens at Central Stadium On September 25 in Game With Dahlgren

LAFAYETTE AND WILLIAM AND MARY NEWCOMERS

Penn State, Fordham And Catholic University Are Outstanding Opponents From Last Year

Facing the hardest schedule it has ever attempted, George Washington University's football team has its hands full this fall. Not only do Penn State and Fordham appear again on this year's schedule but Lafayette and the College of William and Mary have been listed as well.

With a wonderful record last season when its "iron men" dropped only two games out of nine played, this year's team has its work cut out for it if it would emulate last year's record.

The season will open on September 29, at Central Stadium with a game against Dahlgren. The Colonials will have only this one game before tackling Fordham the following week.

Fordham Dangerous
Fordham is lying in wait to revenge themselves for last year's defeat at the hands of the Crummen. This game, last year, marked one of the highlights of the Hachette's schedule, as they literally played rings around Fordham's Purple team to walk off the field with a 13-0 victory.

On October 13, the team again will face a hard battle when it goes to Easton, Pa., for a game with Lafayette, whose team the Colonials did not meet in 1927. This game was scheduled by Lafayette, however, in view of the fine record of the "iron men" last year.

The following Saturday finds the team meeting St. Francis College at Altoona, Pa. From all accounts the St. Francis team will offer some stiff opposition.

October 20, will see the team at home once again, meeting the City College of New York, whose team it beat last year by a 19-6 score. This is an annual game with the "big town" boys and is played on the "home and home" plan, one game being played in New York, and the next year being played at Washington, and so on.

Get Big Game
The William and Mary team is scheduled for Central Stadium on Saturday, November 3, and should draw a goodly throng as the Indians are reputed to have a strong team. This, too, is the initial game between the two schools and in view of the strength of both teams should prove an interesting struggle.

As a result of the Penn State game last year, in which the eleven men of G. W. held Hugo Bezdek's team to a 13-0 score, the Colonials were honored by being offered Penn State's "home-coming" game on November 10, to be played on the State College field. Although losing this game last year, G. W. put up a truly remarkable fight against almost insurmountable odds. Taking no credit from the Nittany Lions, it must be said, however, that both of the winning touchdowns for Penn were rather "freaky" and that the Crummen were handicapped by a couple of bad "breaks." If it had not been for these "breaks" the score would have been a 0-0 tie.

American University is the last opponent to be met before the annual Catholic University game. Although trouncing this team last year to the tune of 27-0, a different story may be told this year and the Colonials will take no chances.

The big game, of course, comes on Thanksgiving Day when the customary Turkey day battle will be held with C. U. This is always the most important game on the schedule to both schools each year, and regardless of their records, is productive of the best playing on both sides.

Drop 1927 Game
Last year, although being heavy favorites to win, the Colonials were vanquished in a hard-fought battle, 27-21. Getting off to a lucky start, the Cardinals of C. U. ran up two touchdowns in the first half, but from then on it was an even battle with the Crummen constantly outplaying their opponents. The feature of the game was furnished by "Babe" Clapper, Colonial star, who ran the kickoff at the opening of the second half 95 yards to a touchdown. Having done this once before during the season, "Babe" tied the world's record by being one of two men to run the kickoff to a touchdown twice during the same season.

An effort is being made to stage the game this year at the Clark Griffith Stadium. The interest having become so great and the crowd wishing to see it so large, it is felt that the stadium at Brookland is inadequate for the needs of this game. Moreover, it would give both teams an even break, in that both would be playing on a neutral field.

in the blindfold cigarette test

Famous star selects OLD GOLD

"One cigarette of the four I smoked in the blindfold test was like shooting a scene successfully after a whole series of failures. It just 'clicked' and I named it as my choice. It was OLD GOLD. Which clears up a mystery, for the supply of OLD GOLDS in my Beverly Hills home is constantly being depleted. It seems that Strongheart and Rin-tin-tin are the only motion picture stars who don't smoke them."

Charlie Chaplin

Made from the heart-leaves of the tobacco plant

MR. CHAPLIN was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like the best?"

"CHARLIE CHAPLIN ... movie favorite the world over, in one of his best-loved pictures - 'The Circus'."

How does OLD GOLD do it?

What's the secret of OLD GOLD'S winning charm? The answer is very simple. Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant ... coarse, heavy top-leaves, irritating to the throat ... withered ground-leaves, without taste or aroma ... and the heart-leaves, rich in cool and fragrant smoking qualities. These golden-ripe heart-leaves give OLD GOLDS their honey-like smoothness. That's why so many people choose them. And that's why you too can pick them ... even in the dark.

SUMMER SCHOOL HOLDS SESSIONS

Visiting Professors and Instructors Add to Regular G. W. U. Courses

PROF. KAYSER IS DIRECTOR

Enrollment of Over Fourteen Hundred Includes Representatives of Many States

The year 1928, was marked by a new organization of the Summer School under the direction of one administrative officer in the person of Professor Elmer Louis Kayser. Previously the various units of the Summer School had been run as independent schools but with the adoption of the new entrance requirements approximating those of the Winter School, all branches were brought under the direct supervision of Prof. Kayser as Director of the Summer School.

Sessions of the Summer School were held in all schools of the University with the exception of the Law School. In two semesters: the larger running from June 18 to August 18, of nine weeks, and the shorter running from July 2 to August 11, of six weeks. The Law school terms ran from June 18 to August 1, and from August 2 to September 15.

In addition to the regular instructional staff of the University, the summer session was augmented by visiting professors from other Universities and colleges, each a leading authority in his particular field of endeavor. Among those instructing during the summer school were: William Armstrong Hunter, Associate Professor of Law; University of Florida; Rolix Harlan, Professor of Sociology, University of Richmond; Arthur Davis Wright, Professor of Education, Dartmouth College; Harry Johnson Steel, Professor of Education, State Teachers' College, Buffalo, New York; Morgan Lafayette Combs, Professor of Education, State Board of Education, Richmond, Virginia; Owen Bradford Griffin, Head Department of English, Wilby High School, Waterbury, Conn.; and Bernice Randall Angelico, Instructor of Music, Wilson Normal School, Washington, D. C.

The total enrollment of the summer session was one thousand four hundred and sixteen distributed in the various schools as follows:

Columbian College	666
Graduate School	106
Engineering	117
Education	206
Library Science	38
Law	283

In the enrollment of approximately fifteen hundred all states of the United States with the exception of Oregon were represented. Students were registered from sixteen foreign countries.

Following the usual custom, the informal party was held Friday, August 31, and was reported as being very well attended.

Catalogues for the session 1929, will be available early in the Spring, preceded by occasional preliminary announcements during the coming Winter. Inquiries as to courses, scholastic requirements, etc., should be directed to the Director of the Summer School, Professor Elmer Louis Kayser.

Handbook Appears On Campus September 17

To Be Distributed Free To Students
At Registration In Corcoran Hall
Edited By R. Campbell Starr

Monday, September 17, will mark the appearance of the Handbook, an eighty-page booklet of information regarding the University's student activities. The Handbook will be distributed free to students as they register in Corcoran Hall, and to all who wish them as long as the supply lasts.

This year's Handbook was published under the auspices of the University Committee on Publications. R. Campbell Starr, '28 edited the book. He was assisted by Donald H. Iglehart and Edith C. Norris.

Five thousand copies of the Handbook were printed. It contains, in addition to general information on student activities, pictures of President Marvin, the several Deans, and South Crum. A new feature is a section containing George Washington songs and yells, and the records of the Interclass Track and Field Meet.

STAFF OF COLONIAL WIG PLAN MEETING

To Be Held Sept. 29; All Interested
In Literary Or Business Side
Asked To Attend

All students who are interested in either the business or literary side of the Colonial Wig, the University's literary magazine, are requested by the staff to meet in Room 33, Lisner Hall, on Thursday, September 29, at 8 o'clock. Students who have had experience on other publications and those who have had no experience will be given the same opportunity to try for a position on the magazine. The qualifications and duties belonging with these positions will be outlined at this meeting, and work will be assigned to those wishing to try out.

Students who have original manuscripts for the Colonial Wig may leave them at Mr. Bement's office. No manuscripts will be returned.

At the first fall meeting of the "Colonial Wig" staff held last Thursday evening, plans for the year's work were drawn up, committees were appointed to handle various problems concerning the "Wig," the work that has been done during the summer was reported on, and the scope of the magazine was discussed. There will be short stories, sketches, essays, poetry, book reviews, and articles on college life. A special feature of the magazine will be the "Stray Locks" department for the expression of student "reactions." During the summer the business staff of the magazine has been particularly active with the result that an encouraging amount of advertising has been secured, according to Pern Henninger, business manager.

Cues, Curtain Calls and Clinches

By STAGE DOOR JOHNNY

COLUMBIA

As expected John Barrymore in "Tempest" will be held over at Loew's Columbia for a second week. The picture has been playing to capacity crowds since its opening. America's most distinguished actor, John Barrymore is aided in this production by Germany's most seductive actress Camilla Horn. Louis Wolheim and George Fawcett also play important parts in the film. The highlights of "Tempest" are the scenes of passionate fury between a princess of the blood and a peasant, between royalists and revolutionists, between generals and peddlers; and love scenes so convincing that the New York Telegram calls the picture "the answer to the modern movie maiden's prayer."

PALACE

"Four Walls" do not make a prison make—but the screen vehicle by that name which opens at Loew's Palace today, furnishes John Gilbert with one of the best starring stories of the year. The picture is a story of regeneration. Gilbert plays the part of a young gangster leader who is sent up for a "stretch" of four years. He comes out determined to live straight and his efforts to do so provide a very entertaining film. Nancy Carroll plays the part of Gilbert's sweetheart and he lives up to his title of a screen lover. Others in the cast include Vera Gordon, Carmel Myers and Robert O'Connor.

POLTS

Poll's will open its fall season on September 30, with Irene Bordoni playing in "Paris," the New York musical comedy success. A more extended review of this coming attraction will be given next week.

KEITH'S

Marion Harris, the Queen of Song, will headline the stage bill at B. F. Keith's theatre for the week of September 16, reopening the Keith-Albee-Orpheum Vaudeville Season.

On the screen will be featured the "Perfect Crime" presented by Joseph P. Kennedy and starring Olive Brook, Irene Rich, Edmund Breese, and Tully Marshall. This picture is said to be a gasping, breath-taking, amazing, sensational presentation, and with it is a love story that tops anything ever presented on the screen. It is conceded to be the biggest mystery thriller of the year.

Other stage features, Aesop's Fables, Topics of the day and the Pathe News Pictorial will complete the bill.

EARLE

The second synchronized production to be presented at the Earle Theater will be Colleen Moore's latest production, "Lilac Time."

In this great spectacle of the air Miss Moore is cast as Jeannine, the sweetheart of a group of daring young aviators quartered on her mother's farm near the firing line. Gary Cooper has the leading male role opposite the star and others in the cast include Miss Moore's brother, Cleve Moore; Burr McIntosh, George Cooper, Kathryn McGuire and Emile Chautard.

In addition to the major offering there also will be presented a program of Vitaphone short subjects and the usual house features, including a new Earle Topical Review and music by Daniel Breeskin's Earle Orchestra.

METROPOLITAN

Richard Barthelmess in "Out of the Ruins," his latest picture, will be the major screen offering at Crandall's Metropolitan for the week beginning Saturday.

The story, based on an original by Sir Phillip Gibbs, is a thrilling narrative of a French Blue Devil, his heroism under fire, his romantic love for Yvonne, his daring in deserting

Mrs. Wiley Elected By Columbian Women

The first meeting of the year will be held on Tuesday, October 2, from four until six o'clock in Room 1, Corcoran Hall. Details of the meeting will be announced later.

PHI THETA XI MEETS

Phi Theta Xi, professional engineering fraternity held a get-together meeting, Thursday, September 6, at the home of Wentworth Clapham.

Plans for the coming year were discussed including a smoker for all the engineers to be held in the near future and a dance to be held later in the season.

The first regular meeting will be held next Friday night, September 21, in Lisner Hall, room 31.

DEBATING SOCIETY TO HOLD MEETING OCT. 5

"That The Election of Al Smith Would Be Unfortunate," Is Question

Columbian Society, the oldest debating organization of the District of Columbia, having recently celebrated its centennial birthday, will hold its first meeting of the new year on Friday, October 5, 1928, in Corcoran Hall.

President Charles Loughlin has announced an interesting program for the initial gathering, the keynote of which will be a debate on the subject "Resolved: That the election of Al Smith as President of the United States would be unfortunate." The negative of the proposition will be supported by L. L. Stukes and Karl F. Frisbie and the affirmative as yet has its sole champion in W. C. Jackson.

The usual custom of allowing members of the society to challenge speakers on the floor as to the merits of their arguments to the extent of three interruptions will be permitted. At the conclusion of the main speeches all members of the forum are permitted to speak briefly on the subject under discussion and to discuss and elaborate upon the views expressed during the arguments. The decision of the question is left to a popular vote of the house assembled. A cordial invitation is extended to all members of the student body interested in forensic activities to attend the meetings of the Society.

With Elbert Huber Chairman of
